

How f-stop Effects Depth of Field at The Same Focal Length

50mm

Stopping down the aperture increases the depth of field in an image made with the same focal length and subject distance. Subject size remains the same.