

Tom's Class For Enthusiastic Photographers, Honoring Carl Nilson

Paint - By - Numbers

Your finished painting is only as good as the template you start with the best brushes will make a cleaner stroke but you only end up with a neater Paint-by Numbers work

The automatic settings on your camera will give you usable images that can be enjoyed on many levels but automatic will limit the creative tools available to you

When you limit your artistic skills you limit your ability to create something great

Artistry

Good art depends on the creativity, vision, and practices that the artist employs based on skill and knowledge of the medium

Brushes are the tool of the artist but they don't make the art

The creative control of the camera is the “brush” that lets you make photographs and not just take pictures

Just like Van Gogh, you have to study and learn about your craft and how to control the results in order to truly express your vision and creativity

Owning a great set of brushes does not make you an artist nor does having a good camera make you a photographer
